

Chron Stages Convo Thursday

Don Lundstrom, editor of the 1950 Chronicle, announces that their annual subscription campaign will be held the week of Oct. 16 to 20. A highlight of the campaign will be a convocation at 11 a.m., Thursday, Oct. 19. This convocation will feature old talent as well as new.

A staff member will be on duty in room 112 all of next week to take your subscriptions. The subscription price will be the same as last year—$2.00.

Joy Ganyo Edits Weekly Paper

The UMD student-faculty board of publications announced that Joy Ganyo will edit the STATESMAN for the 1950-51 academic year. Her appointment became effective Oct. 2.

Toni Romano, who previously had been offered the editorship, entered Dental school on the main campus this fall leaving the position vacant.

Miss Ganyo has served on the staff of the weekly newspaper for the past two years and edited one edition last year as part of her journalism class experience. She is majoring in English and minoring in speech and physical education.

Other major appointments as announced by the Board are: STATESMAN business manager, Bob Leestamper; Chronicle editor, Don Lundstrom, and Chronicle business manager, Anne Nottingham.

DEBATE SQUAD HOLDS INITIAL MEETING OCT. 17

UMD's debate squad will hold its initial meeting of the new year on Tuesday, October 17, at 7:30 p.m. in room 216. It has been requested by coach Mason Hicks that all interested students attend this meeting. Only John Brust and Fred Noreen are returning from last year's team.

UNIVERSITY THEATER HOLDS PLAY TRYOUTS

Final try-outs for the coming University theatre play, "The Male Animal," are to be held today and next Monday according to Harold L. Hayes, director to the University theatre. All students are invited to try out. There are 12 characters in the cast, seven men and five women.

The play, a James Thurber farce comedy, will be presented Nov. 16, 17, and 18 following a four-week rehearsal period.

Its setting is in a mid-western college town and the leading character is a young college professor. Although the play is a treatise on academic freedom, it contains many humorous situations.

A progressive staging technique will be used. Work is now under way on a program to revamp the stage lighting control system which will double the potential of the present lighting system.

The University theater has scheduled Marlowe's "Dr. Faustus" for mid-February and "I Remember Mama," adapted from Katherine Forbe's best selling novel, "Mama's Bank Account" for the first week in May. There are plans also for a co-operative effort of the music, art, dance, and drama departments to present either Menotti's "The Medium," a modern prize winning American short opera or "Down in the Valley," a folk opera by Kirt Weill.

Council Elects Officers for Year

Student council President Don Cook presided over election of Council officers at the initial meeting of the Council Tuesday night.

Officers elected were Mark Magney, vice-president; Dorothy Peterson, business secretary, and Janet Doan, corresponding secretary.

June Hendrickson presented the homecoming budget to the Council. The budget, $600 for homecoming and $100 for the homecoming issue of the STATESMAN, was approved.

Dr. Wood, advisor to the Student council, spoke to the group on the purpose of the organization. He emphasized that the Council members should consider themselves representatives of the school as a whole, not of the organization that they represent.

President Don Cook will appoint six members of the Council to the Executive council, which will serve as his cabinet.

Cook brought before the Council problems presented to him by the freshmen at their first convocation.

Varsity Show Prizes Offered

An appeal for talent for the forthcoming all-campus Varsity show was issued this week by co-chairmen Mary Lou Ellingson and Herb Taylor.

The Varsity Show, biggest campus variety event of the year, is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 27, at 8 p.m. Cash and merchandise prizes amounting to $25 will be awarded the best acts.

Singers, musicians, skits, variety acts are all needed. Interested persons should contact the co-chairmen, P. O. 807, to arrange for auditions. A special appeal is made to campus organizations to organize and sponsor acts for the show.

GOLDSTEIN ANNOUNCES FILM SHOWING SCHEDULE

The Audio-Visual Aid department will begin its fall program, under the direction of Dr. Harold Goldstein, with a film showing at noon Thursday, Oct. 19 in the auditorium.

The films will include "Waverly Steps," a film on the life of city folk in Edinburgh, England; "Be Gone, Dull Care," an abstraction on boogie-woogie and "Baby Sitter."

The purpose of these programs is to give college students extra experience through the eyes of the camera, thus widening their general knowledge. The department will attempt to present both old and new films.

A new feature of the film showing this year will be the use of a 16mm. projector from a projection booth to be erected at the back of the auditorium.

Future showings will include: Oct. 26—"White Flood," the photographic story of a glacier and Moor's "Pavane," a modernistic dance.

Nov. 2—"North Sea," a documentary film on the life of a

North Sea fisherman and "Nature of Plastics."

Nov. 9—"Amazon Awakens," on the advancement of civilization along the Amazon river, and "Stars and Stripes," an abstraction.

Nov. 16—"The Pearlers," "Can Animals Think?" and "Canadian Cruise," a Canadian scenery film.

Nov. 30—"Challenge," the scientist's fight against cancer, and "Desperate Heart" with Valerie Bettis.

Dec. 7—"New England—Yesterday and Today."

Two Editorials:

Purpose and Praise...

"Statesman, yet friend to truth; Of soul sincere."

These words, by Alexander Pope have given the UMD STATESMAN its name. The STATESMAN staff will make every effort to see that the paper is worthy of its title.

As the official publication of UMD, the STATESMAN will serve three purposes. First of all, the paper serves as the voice of the student body. This will be done editorially and through student contributions to the Editor's Mailbox. These may be left in the box on the editor's desk, room 32, Washburn.

The second purpose of this student newspaper is to keep UMD students informed on campus happenings. STATESMAN news coverage will be fairly distributed. Any organization that asks for coverage of a newsworthy event will receive as complete coverage as space permits.

The STATESMAN also functions as part of the University's program of public relations. As a part of this function, the staff publishes a big issue in the spring, to be sent to all the high schools of the area.

Congratulations to all administration, faculty and student body members who worked together to make UMD's first freshman orientation week a success.

A freshman orientation program has been needed in our school for a long time. It is very likely that this program, if it is kept up in future years, will all but eliminate UMD's chronic problem—lack of school spirit.

After all, if a school fails to give an incoming class any indication of concern about their welfare when they are just beginning to attend school, the class is very apt to feel the same way about the school.

But, when a new class is made to feel that the school cares enough to give them an introduction to the institution, rather than just let them sink or swim, the student's attitude will be entirely different.

It is up to the school organizations to complete the work begun by freshman orientation. If this new class is made to feel that they are part of this school, we will see results in the next few years.

To the Editor:

I would like to commend the administration for their solution of the science building problem. I believe that the half-hour schedule is the best method of coping with the situation.

Also helpful are the freshmen composition classes which are being held in the science building. This cuts running between buildings to a minimum.

However, there is still room for improvement. Consider the case of the student who has all or nearly all of his classes at the new building. Since no lockers are provided he must stagger from room to room with an overwhelming load of books.

Furthermore, there are no regular rooms in which spare time may be spent for studying or eating lunch. Surely a list of available rooms and the hours which they are vacant could be posted on the bulletin board!

A Science Major.

Exams Examined...

You, Too, Can Go Quietly Crazy

It occurs to us that the freshmen at UMD will soon encounter their first college exams, so we submit herewith a sample test paper for their instruction. The questions are taken from a variety of courses, so as to provide the greatest benefit to the greatest number.

1.) English—15 minutes. Discuss Keats' sonnet on "Chapman's Homer." Explain the following:

A) Why was Chapman's Homer important?

B) Did Keats' know what the score was?

C) Who was pitching?

2.) Education—15 minutes. In "An Introduction to the Fundamentals of the Principles of the Elements of Certain Aspects of Primary Education," by Oates and Barlie, the authors discuss the problem of hydrocephalic children in Outer Mongolian public schools. Give their basic arguments as they appear on pages 3—1,795 in your text. Be brief.

3.) Psychology—15 minutes. If you were treating a paranoid with homicidal tendencies, would you ratiocinate the indefinite variables of his free-disassociation pattern, or introduce him to your mother-in-law. Be specific.

4.) Logic—30 minutes. All plumbers are liars. If a left-handed paperhanger said: "All right-handed paperhangers are left-handed," would he be:

A) Kicked out of the union.

Lavonne Anderson: Duluth's Sixth Duchess, UMD's Third

"Come to the reception, and I'll introduce you to the Duchess. I think I'll know her," said lovely Lavonne Anderson just a few minutes before Harry James tapped her for the big prize she hadn't dreamed she'd get.

Our freshman beauty from Hermantown blushed a deep rose when the famous bandleader halted beside her, raised her to her feet, and escorted her to the throne. "When he stopped in front of me I waited for him to walk by. I was sure there was some mistake. Even when I stood up, I couldn't believe it was true," she said. UMD had another Duchess!

A Spicely Anecdote...

Can You Tie This One?

By HARRY BRUSELL

Add another voice to the oft-elloquent pros and cons on the value of higher education, and savor it for its delectable discernment, if not for its artful expression. Forthwith:

While an ASTP student at Baylor University, Waco, Texas, in 1944, it was the writer's enlightening experience to witness a rough-and-tumble tug-of-war between two student teams as part of their sports program.

During the course of this campus caper the rope suddenly decided to give up first, breaking neatly in the center to send the respective teams sprawling on their respective seats of learning.

Due to wartime shortages no replacement for the broken cord was available and a fancy job of splicing was called for. An appeal was made to the crowd of spectators, composed of military students and faculty members. But no one came up with the needed know-how and the teams were about to call it a day. They were at the end of their rope.

But just then "Jeb," an old negro handy-man around the campus, chanced upon the scene, and with mumbled apologies pushed his way over to the shattered rope. Picking up the two ragged ends, Jeb carefully began weaving the tiny strands together. The onlookers watched in open-eyed wonder (they could see better with their eyes open) at the meticulous precision of the old man's hands.

Finishing the last strand and giving the rope a couple of stout jerks to test its strength, Jeb told the two stout jerks to lay down the rope and rally their comrades; the rope would now hold.

luth, Lavonne began her acceptance speech with an unprepared "This is the happiest moment of my life." The speech she had memorized for the occasion was for a second forgotten in her attempt to say what she was feeling.

When the Coronation ball was over, Lavonne was taken to her room where she was greeted by a surprise party put on by the girls at the YWCA where she lives.

Tired, excited, and very happy, our Duchess ended the biggest day in her life not too many hours before her eight-o'clock class.

Parties and social events aren't by any means the extent of Lavonne's activities. School, a part-time job, and seeing that certain someone on week-ends help to keep her occupied.

Lavonne is the third consecutive UMD student to be elected Duchess of Duluth. Her predecessors were Jackie Galvin and Lorrie Welsh.

What to See

"Her Wonderful Lie," an American adaptation of Puccini's "La Boheme," at the Lakeside.

Student rate is 60c with the presentation of an activities card.

Just as Jeb was about to bow out of his brief interlude in the limelight and go back to his labors, he found himself confronted by an amazed professor of engineering. "Please accept my sincere congratulations, Jeb," he said. "Why, I've been teaching engineering for twenty years and I swear I don't know how to splice a rope like that!" Aside from cautioning the professor against swearing, on moral grounds—or on campus grounds, for that matter—Jeb said nothing.

The professor continued (after twenty years of giving 50-minute lectures, he was forced to continue, to maintain his bodily homeostasis): "You surprise me to the cortex, Jeb. I don't know if you realize it, but you, Jeb, have done something this afternoon that apparently none of the learned people assembled here were capable of doing, to say nothing of saving the day for the sports program."

Jeb discreetly said nothing of saving the day for the sports program, but his wise old face brightened in a broad smile, as he intoned: "Well, suh, ah don't have no edycation, and a man wiffout an edycation got t'use his brains to git along in dis world."

OSPS Announces Status Of Draft-Age Students

Some confusion has arisen regarding the action of local Selective Service boards in relation to college and university students, according to OSPS. Students pursuing full-time courses who receive their orders for induction while enrolled in an institution of higher education and wish to postpone their entrance into the armed forces, should request postponement of induction, not deferment.

Postponement for the academic year is mandatory upon the local board for all full-time students as the Selective Service act of 1948 states: "Any person who, while satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction at a college, university, or similar institution of learning, is ordered to report for induction under this title, shall, upon the facts being presented to the local board, have his induction under this title postponed until the end of such academic year or until he ceases satisfactorily to pursue such course of instruction, whichever is the earlier."

Students subject to selective service and those now in reserve units may, upon proof of need, request that a statement from the Student Personnel office be submitted for purposes of seeking postponement of induction or re-entrance into military service. Such a statement does not request deferment but merely supplies factual information to be used by units concerned in evaluating individual requests.

A group of eight geology students left by car Tuesday on an inspection and mineral collecting trip in the Black Hills area of South Dakota. They were accompanied by Dr. Robert L. Heller, assistant professor of geology. They plan to return Sunday evening.

Students making the trip are John Griesbach, William Gelineau, John Thomas, Alan Kilimann, Forrest Bovel, William Kohagen, Samuel Maida and Mary Owston.

Collecting fossils in the beds at Pierre, South Dakota, and visiting an oil field are included in the plans of the group.

The group will inspect the Homestake gold mine, which is the largest in this country.

They will visit Devil's Tower, an extinct volcanic plug, and Wind Cave, both national monuments. Mount Rushmore is also on their program.

The students will collect minerals in the vicinity of Keystone, South Dakota.

On the return trip they will visit the South Dakota school of mines and the South Dakota badlands.

Art Department Holds Exhibit

Oil and watercolor paintings done by art department students studying under Yasuo Kuniyoshi, artist in residence during the summer session, will continue to be shown during the next week at Tweed Hall. Also being shown through next week at Tweed is a collection illustrating print processes loaned by the School of Associated Arts, St. Paul.

Tommies End UMD Victory Streak

DON McDONELL TRIES to elude two unidentified Tommie tacklers while two Duluth men, out of the play, look on.

POINTS after Touchdowns

by Kenny Vogel

This issue of the Statesman introduces an almost completely new staff. The sports department is no exception, with myself one of the newer additions to UMD as well.

If you will bear with us during our initial offerings and overlook our shortcomings until we have had an opportunity to become more fully acquainted, we'll greatly appreciate it. In the meantime, it will be our ambition to provide you with as complete and unbiased a coverage of UMD athletics as we are able to with the resources that we possess. We express the sincere wish that this will be a mutually pleasant and lengthy association for all concerned.

As the UMD Bulldogs prepare for Macalester this weekend in their fourth outing, let's recapitulate somewhat and also venture some advance predictions as to what may happen during the remainder of the schedule.

Everyone approached the St. Thomas game last week with high hopes that the Bulldogs had the stuff to hand the Tommies their first loss in a victory skein extending over the past five years of conference play.

Coach Peterson's squad had shown themselves to be opportunists of the first water in the opener with St. Olaf. Twice the Oles fumbled, and both times alert recoveries by UMD were converted into quick TDs. A blocked kick paved the way for another score as our hard-charging line dominated the play. The backs ran hard, and blocking assignments were executed perfectly.

It was the same against St. Mary's. The Bulldogs spotted the Redmen a touchdown, but retained their poise. They smothered a dangerous passing attack, then scored three times to win 20-6.

Then what happened against the Tommies? The final score was an indication of the difference between the team that had played the first two games and the one on the field last Saturday night. The Tommies were good, but not that good. UMD showed a complete reversal of form. After St. Thomas had punched over two quick touchdowns, the poise, which had served them well before, disappeared. Blocking assignments were missed. Running plays were stopped, and a flurry of passes was resorted to with an equal lack of success.

Probably the deciding play was a fourth down gamble on a pass with a yard to go deep in UMD territory. It was incomplete, and the Tommies stormed right back with a third touchdown. UMD was a panicky, demoralized team for the remainder of the half.

WAA Sponsors Activity Hour

Field hockey and soccer games are set for 3:00 Tuesdays as the WAA activity hour swings into action. Mrs. Ruth Richards, advisor, announced that outdoor sports will continue as long as the good weather lasts. These will be followed by volleyball and basketball when the gym can be obtained.

All interested women are urged to come out and get in activities from the beginning as the membership is open. A system of points, given for each participation, accumulate toward winning a WAA award.

Wells Asks All to Sign For Their Favorite Sport

Ward Wells, director of intra-mural athletics, requests that all students who wish to participate in some intra-mural activity, to sign their names on the list posted on the gym bulletin board. He would like everyone to sign up as members of some team, and not as individuals. Plans are being formulated for teams in bowling, touch football, badminton, volleyball and later, basketball and softball.

There is room for sixteen bowling teams, with the champion having the honor of competing in the extra-mural bowling meet at St. Thomas next spring. This is much like an inter-collegiate meet except that the intra-mural winners will be competing. With this as an incentive, let's see you "hot-shots" sign up.

Hibbing Ruins Frosh Grid Debut

UMD's freshman football squad made an unsuccessful

However the second half was better. The Toms pushed across two more scores, but the Bulldogs matched them and almost got a man loose for another. The boys stayed in there and continued to fight right down to the final gun, even though they were considerably outmanned and the outcome was no longer in doubt.

This latter show of determination and fight should serve as an indication of what to expect from here on. Beginning with the Mac game, if the Bulldogs can regain their early season form, retain their poise, and continue their courageous show of spirit, they can still wind up near the top of the conference heap. One loss to a team of the caliber of St. Thomas is no disgrace. We think that the boys can do it, and with your loyal support, they'll make a battle of it.

UMD SEEKS TO REMAIN IN MIAC RACE vs MACS

Seeking to regain winning ways again after being smothered under a 41-12 avalanche by St. Thomas last week, the UMD Bulldogs entertain Macalester here Saturday.

The Scots have a win, a loss, and a tie on their record compared to two wins and one loss for the UMD.

St. Thomas blotted The Bulldog's perfect record and handed Coach Peterson's charges their first conference defeat in the MIAC last Saturday. Pushing across two quick touchdowns in the first quarter, the Tommies were never headed.

Jim Brandt, their speedster, ran the ends at will to personally account for four of the TDs. He scored on runs ranging from five to 49 yards during the first half. St. Thomas led 27-0 at the intermission.

UMD scored in the third quarter after

MURPHY

Bob Neary pounced on a Tommie fumble on the 11. Murphy drove over for the score three plays later. St. Thomas immediately scored again with Jim Brunett skirting the end from the eight. A pass interception led to another score before UMD was able to get another drive going from their own seven to St. Thomas' 25. Murphy blasted through center the remaining distance for the final score. His placekick attempts on both TDs were wide.

carried the brunt of the Frosh attack with Reichel climaxing a 54-yard drive by going over from the one and Knapp passing to end Dick Loring for the extra point.

Despite the seemingly lop-sided score UMD athletic director-coach Lewis Rickert was very pleased with the Frosh, who had only four short practice sessions to prepare for the tilt.
